State Employees Charitable Giving Campaign

September 3–January 3

State Employees Have HEART
September 3, 2019

Dear colleague,

As a public servant, I’m humbled by the trust the citizens of our great state have placed in us. It’s our mission to continually move Colorado forward so that all may thrive.

The Colorado Combined Campaign (CCC) serves a unique role in our fulfilling our mission. The CCC is a unique, simple and effective way for state employees to connect with nonprofit organizations of all types. This is as true today as when the campaign was founded more than three decades ago.

Colorado has hundreds of nonprofits that share our values. Whether it is helping educate our children, supporting the study and cure for disease, or simply helping those less fortunate than ourselves the CCC makes giving simple and fulfilling. Giving never goes out of style.

Please join me in making your CCC donation this year. Our sights are set on raising $1 million, and with your help I know we can get there. If you’re a new member of the team, learn more and sign up. If you’ve given before, give again and add a few extra dollars. Let’s come together around our shared love for Colorado and our commitment to its future.

Sincerely yours,

Jared Polis
Governor

Find your favorite charity and donate today at www.ipledgeonline.org/_coloradocombinedcampaign.
Dear colleague,

In addition to the work we do every day, supporting our favorite nonprofits through the Colorado Combined Campaign is an important way state employees ensure opportunity for all Coloradans. Every donation makes life better for another person, whether by helping them develop job skills, enjoy the arts or breathe cleaner air.

The CCC makes it easy to make a difference. There is no minimum contribution. Giving online takes just a few minutes. You can do it painlessly, right out of your paycheck a few dollars at a time. You have the opportunity to select from more than 500 charities across the state vetted to ensure the highest standards of nonprofit integrity. You’re empowered to determine how, how much and to whom you donate. Doing so is also voluntary, but I encourage you to participate in this great annual tradition.

Like me, I’m sure you got into public service in order to help others and meet big challenges. Your gift through the CCC in 2019 is a simple yet powerful way to live up to the promise of these values. Please join me in donating!

Cheers,

Phil Weiser
Colorado Attorney General
CCC Honorary Chair 2019

Finding what you need in this guide

This guide contains information about all of the 500 nonprofits that have applied, been accepted and are eligible for funding through the 2019–2020 campaign. They are sorted three ways, because readers of the guide are looking for different things. What are you looking for?

- If you’re searching for a nonprofit by name, go straight to the alphabetical list (starting on page 51).
- If you’re interested in a particular cause (animals, mental health and counseling, outdoors and recreation, etc.) and want to see the nonprofit choices within it, go to the listings by cause area. These descriptions (which start on page 7) are the most extensive, offering charity name, description, website address, phone number and service region (area of the state the charity offers its services).
- If you’re interested in finding CCC nonprofits by area of the state, go to the listings by giving federation (starting on page 43). Many federations (particularly United Way organizations) are geographically based.

You can also find CCC charities listed on our website, organized alphabetically and by federation, service region (part of the state) and cause area. Just visit www.coloradocombinedcampaign.org and click on the “Donor Resources” tab.

About the CCC

What is the Colorado Combined Campaign?
The Colorado Combined Campaign (CCC) is the annual charitable workplace giving campaign of Colorado state government employees. The state established the campaign in 1987 as a beneficial way for employees to easily and efficiently donate to a wide array of nonprofits and support their communities. Since then, state employees through the CCC have raised nearly $35 million for Colorado charities. In 2018, state employees made 5,500 donations totaling $860,000. The average donation was $368, or about $30 per paycheck.

How does donating through the CCC work?
As a state employee, you’re in charge of your giving. Each year, you can choose from around 500 Colorado nonprofits that represent more than 20 different causes and every corner of the state. You also decide how to give. Most employees do so through payroll contribution (a few dollars each pay period), a longstanding tradition. But you can also make a recurring donation with a credit/debit card or bank payment, or a one-time donation with cash, check or credit/debit card. There is no minimum donation. Signing up is easy, either online or with a paper form.

What is the benefit of making a donation through the CCC versus giving directly to my favorite charity?
The CCC enables you to donate directly out of your paycheck, in whatever amount you like. This automatic, incremental giving allows most people to give more overall. Additionally, nonprofits can keep their administrative costs lower if they’re processing a single, large payment from the CCC versus multiple, smaller payments from individual donors. Your contribution through the CCC has a greater impact when it’s combined with the generosity of your coworkers.

Who can participate?
The CCC is a benefit of employment for all state workers. It was created by executive order in 1987 and has been endorsed by Colorado governors ever since. Nearly 60 state agencies and state colleges and universities—and thousands of state-employee donors—participate each year.

Is my donation tax deductible?
Yes. Every agency listed in the CCC Resource Guide & Directory is recognized by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) as a 501(c)(3) nonprofit. Donations to these groups are eligible for tax deduction on your annual income tax form. You will need to retain a copy of your pledge form and (if giving through payroll contribution) a copy of your final pay stub showing the total amount withheld during the calendar year in order to claim your deduction. CCC donations are post-tax, per IRS guidelines.

If I currently give through payroll contribution, do I have to sign up again when there’s a new campaign?
Yes. Participation in the CCC is voluntary. Therefore, no one assumes because you gave one year that you’ll give the next. It’s easy, though, to replicate your online pledge from year to year. Just look for the prompt when you visit your account at www.ipledgeonline.org/coloradocombinedcampaign.

Can I continue to participate when I retire?
Yes. The CCC now offers a retiree giving program that enables employees to continue their philanthropic commitment to their charity, cause, community and state after they retire. Visit the special page at www.coloradocombinedcampaign.org to learn more and make your gift.

Do I get a receipt for my donation?
Your completed and signed pledge form serves as proof of your gift, if you’re giving on paper. If you give online, the iPledge giving system will automatically email you a confirmation of your donation.

What if I make a mistake and want to change my gift?
No problem. Just contact the CCC at 720-420-3210 or info@coloradocombinedcampaign.org for help.

Who manages the CCC?
The CCC is managed by Community Shares of Colorado, an expert in workplace giving campaigns. Community Shares was awarded a contract with the state to run the campaign and works closely with the all-employee CCC Advisory Committee to plan and manage operations. The CCC also partners with volunteers from across state government to run the campaign.

How is the CCC held accountable?
The campaign’s activities are overseen by a committee of state employees (the CCC Advisory Committee), which meets nearly every month to set policy, approve plans and guide direction. The CCC Advisory Committee approves the annual budget and monitors expenses each month. In addition, the CCC is audited yearly and is a registered nonprofit with the Colorado Secretary of State.

How is the CCC financed?
The CCC’s annual budget is determined based on the amount of the previous year’s donations. To encourage, process and distribute donations, the CCC incurs operational costs such as rent, phones, computers, staff, printing, bookkeeping, meetings, events and a yearly audit. No campaign expense is born by the state. Rather, the CCC uses a cost-sharing model. To finance their participation, nonprofits allow the CCC to keep 15¢ for every dollar raised to cover essential administrative/management costs. This amount has been constant for many years and has not increased. Nonprofits apply to be part of the CCC acknowledging the cost-sharing model because it’s an economical way for them to reach a large audience of potential donors.

Is the CCC cost effective?
Yes. In comparison to other forms of fundraising such as grant writing (20¢ for every dollar raised), events (50¢), and, direct mail ($1), workplace giving (15¢) is among the most cost-effective. The current campaign manager, Community Shares of Colorado, has consistently been under budget in managing the CCC for the last five years. Also, the CCC raises funds for more than 500 charities, versus just one.

Why should I give if a portion of my donation doesn’t go to my nonprofit?
Because no state funds can be used to cover the cost of reaching Colorado’s 50,000+ state employees, the state partners with a nonprofit to help manage the campaign for a low cost. Further, Colorado nonprofits like participating in workplace giving campaigns because the costs are lower than other types of fundraising, the reach is much greater and the contributions are consistent.

What are some of the criteria for nonprofits applying to the CCC?
Applying is mandatory for all interested nonprofits, who must provide items such as an IRS 501(c)(3) letter of determination, an IRS form 990, filings from the Colorado Secretary of State, a budget, a board of directors list, a narrative that discusses program activities, a local presence form and a non-discrimination policy. There are two application forms, depending on the type of nonprofit: a giving federation (such as a local United Way, which has member nonprofits it represents in workplace giving campaigns) and a CUSSO (which stands for state college/university foundation and state service organization. The latter are small, independent nonprofits which don’t belong to a giving federation.) The requirements between the two application forms are similar and all applicants are held to the same standards of review. That CCC nonprofits are vetted by the campaign is an advantage for donors.

Who can I call if I have questions about the CCC?
CCC staff members are available to answer your questions any time. Call us at 720-420-3210 or email info@coloradocombinedcampaign.org.

Visit www.coloradocombinedcampaign.org/donor-faqs for answers to more commonly asked questions.

Find your favorite charity?
We hope your favorite charity is on our list. If not, just let us know at info@coloradocombinedcampaign.org. We'll invite them to apply in 2020 and send them the needed materials.
Giving is its own reward—and prizes are nice, too!

We’re proud to offer these incentives to our generous state employee donors. Visit our website and Facebook page throughout the campaign to learn about complete eligibility rules and winners.
